

NEXGEN CONSULTING CORPS

This award-winning program offers international consulting experience and strengths-based leadership training for graduate students from top universities.

“ Emzingo was a perfect setup for me where I could flex my understanding of the business skills I was learning during my MBA. In the particular project I was doing, I had to distill all of these really complex business concepts into something that was palatable for a teenager, since it was a business accelerator designed for youth. This process really helped me understand more succinctly why things like EBITDA and a balanced spreadsheet were so important and why we do it that way. Business marketing also used the same principals in the townships of Johannesburg as they do elsewhere. I thought that was a really incredible experience for that reason.

Alexandra Cirgenski, Emzingo NexGen Fellow. McGill University MBA.
